

Jonathan Adashek to replace Ray Day at IBM

According to the Holmes Report, Jonathan Adashek has been appointed as IBM's new chief communications officer. He replaces the outgoing Ray Day.

Adashek takes on the role after departing his post as global communications lead for the Renault-Nissan-Mitsubishi Alliance. He will lead IBM's global communications and corporate citizenship teams and report to senior VP of global markets Martin Schroeter.

Read more on Holmes Report.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>