

See: Deleting cancer one (dance) step at a time

To celebrate the resilience of cancer survivors, giving hope to those currently battling the disease, and shedding light on the challenges faced by those fighting for their lives, the third annual Dancing Out of Cancer concert recently took centre stage at the Soweto Theatre.

Hosted in partnership with DKMS Africa, the event saw talented musicians, dancers and poets coming together to spread joy and promote healing through their art.

Musicians like Maleh, Billy Monama, Ayanda Khumalo and Omega Khunou serenaded the audience, moving hearts, minds and bodies with their mesmerising performances. Dancers from the Nomsa Manaka Dance Studio dazzled the crowd by transforming themselves into canvases for storytelling, conveying the emotions and narratives of the music.