

See: Opera UCT's global premiere

The Opera UCT talent showcase took place this week, and director Jeremy Silver announced the plan for 2024. Jeremy Silver's insights not only reaffirmed Opera UCT's status as a world-class institution but also highlighted its leadership in the realm of opera.

The most significant revelation came in the form of an announcement: In September 2024, Opera UCT will proudly present the world premiere of "Dalinda" by Donizetti. This operatic masterpiece, previously suppressed in 19th-century Italy due to censorship, has recently been rediscovered in its entirety.

Opera UCT students, selected from a pool of three global companies, will have the unprecedented opportunity to bring this lost gem to life in its first-ever full staging. What adds to the excitement is the collaboration with an international producer and costume director, providing students with a unique and enriching experience.
