

Code4CT, Booking.com to co-host coding workshop

Code for Cape Town (Code4CT) and Booking.com are partnering to encourage girls to code by co-hosting a one-day workshop on Saturday, 30 September 2017.

Code for Cape Town is a public beneficiary organisation that strives to increase the numbers of young women leveraging technology for social innovation so that there is greater diversity in the African tech industry.

The workshop is said to complement Code for Cape Town's Grade 10 programme, which takes girls from zero coding knowledge to a basic proficiency in web development.

Grade 10 learners completing Code4CT's Beginner JavaScript course are able to attend the workshop to further develop their coding skills and meet the techies of Booking.com.

For more, go to www.code4ct.com.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>