

#LoeriesRanking with... Joe Public

By  Leigh Andrews

1 Dec 2017

Just when you thought the Loeries buzz was over, the Loeries' rankings are in! I chatted to some of this year's top-ranked creatives post-celebrations. We continue the local insights with Joe Public.

We recently celebrated our 19th birthday with a 90s-theme party which represented the era in which, Joe Public was founded. The birthday celebration was supported by a live broadcast of 'The Best Drive' show on YFM from our Bryanston offices. A big thank you has to go out to @yfm for the opportunity to partner with us once again. 19 years young and only getting better. Here's to more years to come. A post shared by Joe Public United (@joepublicunited) on Apr 5, 2017 at 2:34am PDT on turning 19 earlier this year, they also came out as the 'most awarded' and tops for good use of research, with excellent momentum in the digital space as well as integrated services in Scopen's 2017 Agency Scope survey, while ranking amongst the top five in overall market perception, client satisfaction and competitors' opinion. Group chief creative officer Pepe Marais was also ranked as the most admired industry creative by marketers and other agency professionals.

#Loeries2017: ALL THE WINNERS!

20 Aug 2017

As a result of all the Loeries added to their flock this year, Joe Public United was ranked 16th in the overall ranking by agency 2017 table, 11th SA agency and ninth by regional agency group 2017, which includes group networks across Africa and the Middle East. They also feature in tenth spot for large agencies with 100 or more employees, with Roanna Williams in 20th post on the ECD ranking.

Shift Joe Public also checks in at fifth spot in the communication design ranking, and tenth spot in the small agency table for 1 to 40 employees.

I spoke to Williams, marking 4.5 years at the agency; as well as fellow ECD Simone Rossum, at the agency since 2006; and Christo Kruger, creative director at Shift Joe Public on and off for six years, to find out how Joe Public plans to extend their winning streak next year and which agencies they admire most in the industry...

Joe Publicans: ECD Roanna Williams, ECD Simone Rossum and Shift Joe Public creative director Christo Kruger.

📌 Let us in on the secret: What do you attribute this year's successes to?

Williams: "We don't grow when things are easy. We grow when we face challenges." And I guess that is how I define our year. Doing great work is really hard and in a tough economy it's even tougher. However, we've managed to turn small opportunities into larger successes.

Rossum: Passion, dedication and resilience.

Kruger: A strong original concept coming to life in a great execution, with very high production quality.

📌 What plans are already underway to better your ranking next year?

Williams: We will be focusing on doing less, better. Great, locally relevant ideas that touches people, create talkability, and make a difference to the world.

Rossum: We have identified creative opportunities to pursue from an integrated and holistic Joe Public United angle.

Kruger: Working together to conceptualise big ideas that will make a meaningful measurable difference in society.

📌 How does this year's Loeries flock differ from your haul last year?

Williams: Our flock was similar in terms of the amount however, the discerning difference for us this year is that three of our TVC pieces were awarded – Nedbank, Chicken Licken and Panado.

We set ourselves a goal to improve our television work, so to receive these three accolades is an indication for us that we are heading in the right direction. We also managed to win a silver Loerie in the radio category for our client Jet, a brand who has fully embraced the power of creativity towards driving sales. It was Jet's first Loerie.

Rossum: We pursued a more focused strategy, putting our attention on proliferating one piece across various categories.

Kruger: Originality, integration and impact.

■ Tell us two people you personally admire in the industry in 2017 – both an established mentor figure as well as a newcomer making waves.

Williams: In the world we live in, we too often look outwards to find inspiration, when true creativity lies within all of us. It has been my journey over the past year to refine my own creative confidence towards bringing the value to our clients which I believe I am. One has to recognise the small things you bring to the table every day that over time amount in making a big impact. If I have to be honest, I admire myself for that and in doing this I hope to encourage others to do the same.

Rossum: Nathan Reddy, an incredible mentor, for his continued drive for creating brands that truly mean something.

I unfortunately cannot think of a newcomer making waves in the brand design sphere at this year's Loeries unfortunately. The category seemed to be dominated by the big players this year.

Kruger: Sarita Immelman and Jan-Hendrik Labuschagne, for consistently delivering world class work in brand design and illustration. The Marble identity they collaborated on is superb.
