

South African Telecommunications Ad Spend Report

Issued by Ornico

25 Mar 2022

The past two years following the rise of the pandemic have wreaked havoc in the lives and businesses of South Africans. As was said by President Cyril Ramaphosa in the 22 March nation address, "The pandemic has changed the way we work, travel, worship and socialise." With this change came a sudden increase in the need for connectivity as working and schooling from home became the new normal. One could assume this gave telecommunication companies an upper hand nonetheless they were also widely affected.

Ornico, one of Africa's leading media monitoring agencies, has compiled a free to download ad spend report. This report provides an independent and unbiased view of advertising activity in the Telecommunications category – for the period 2020 and 2021.

The research looks at two main areas:

1. the analysis of new executions (Newcomers) of telecommunication adverts launched during the period,
2. a toplineMediaTrac view on advertising, spend on radio and television.
