"The Loeries is an organisation that is built on the mission of enhancing creative innovation," says Loeries CEO, Preetesh Sewraj, "This year we continue this goal through this first step – opening of entries. This will allow brands, agencies, and production companies, and anyone that creates brand communication, to submit their work into a judging programme that is rooted not just in a long history, but also in sound governance that is globally respected."

Diarise the dates

The entry eligibility period is for work that was commercially published, launched or aired, to a substantial audience, anytime from 1 July 2023 to 30 June 2024.

Entries are open immediately, with the early bird entry deadline set for 3 May and the entry phase closing date planned for 31 May.

Key categories

The Loeries focuses on key categories where creative excellence amplifies a brand's ability to connect with its audience. Entrants therefore have the choice of submitting their work in several categories such as film, print, radio and audio, digital, design, live events, PR, social impact campaign, service design, media innovation and many other innovative categories. These categories are continuously refined annually to ensure that they represent a true view of the types of consumer communication being created across the region.
